BURNS, ON THE DEATH OF HIS DAUGHTER.

Oh sweet be thy sleep in the land of the grave, My dear little angel, forever!
Forever? O no! let not man be a slave, His hopes from existence sever.

Though cold be the clay where thou pillowest thy head,
In the dark silent mansion of sorrow,
The spring shall return to thy low narrow bed like the beam of the day-star to-morrow.

The flower-stem shall bloom like thy sweet seraph form,
Ere the spoiler had nipped thee in blossom; When thou shrunk from the scowls of the loud winter storm;
And nestled thee close to that bosom.

Oh! still I behold thee, all lovely in death, Reclined on the lap of thy mother, When the tear trickled bright; when the short stifled breath Told how dear ye were eye to each other.

My child thou art gone to the home of thy rest, Where suffering no longer can harm thee; Where the songs of the good; where the hymn of the blest, Through an endless existence shall charm thee.

While he, thy fond parent, must sighing sojourn
Through the dim distant region of sorrow, On the hopes and misfortune of being to-morrow,
And sigh for this life's latest morrow.

THE WEATHER.

The season, 'tis granted, is not very gay, But we cannot in justice complain of the weather;
For if changes delight us, we have in one day, Spring, Summer and Autumn and Winter together.

MISCELLANY.

THE ABSENT MAN:

*Life and Singular Eccentricities of GEORGE HARVEST,
Paragon & Comedian.*
[Concluded]

His fondness for theatrical performances very much abated in his latter years. Lady Onslow one day took him to accompany her to see Garrick play some favorite character. They took their seats in the front row of the front boxes; and Harvest knowing he was to sleep in town, literally brought his nightcap in his pocket. It was of stripped woolen, and had not been washed full half a year.

In pulling out his handkerchief, his cap came out with it, and fell into the pit; the person on whom it fell tossed it from him; the next did the same; and the cap was for some minutes handed to and fro, all over the pit. Harvest, who was afraid of losing his convenience, got up, and after hemming three times to clear his pipes, began to make an oration, signifying to those who were thus amusing themselves with his cap, to restore it when they had enough fun with it, for he observed it was a very serious thing to die without a nightcap—"And please to restore it to me who am the owner of it," at the same time placing his left hand on his breast, declared, "I shall be restless to night if I have not my cap."— The mob, struck with his manner, handed up the cap on the end of one of their sticks, thus putting the doctor out of fear of a restless night.

His abruptness to the ladies has been frequently remarked; one instance of it and no more. Once when he was sitting among a company, mostly of the fair sex, at lady Onslow's a big fly which had buzzed about him a long while, at last settled upon the bonnet of one of the ladies, which the doctor observing, got up, and with a formidable look and accent, pronounced very loud (to the fly) "May you be married!" and watching his opportunity to kill it, he lifted his hand, and gave the lady such a slap upon the head as quite deranged her attire, and confused the company so, that had not Lady Onslow entered the room at that moment and made an apology for the rudeness of the doctor's conduct, the whole company would have retired quite affronted.

But upon Mr. Harvest begging pardon of the offended lady, and confessing he did not know what he was doing, it ended in a hearty laugh, and the general discourse of the whole company.

His ideas were so confused sometimes, that he performed actions equal to those done by the effect of Somnambulism. Once perceiving a friend and his wife in an upper room at the house at Ember Court, he, in the way of a joke only, looked them in, and put the key into his pocket: when soon after being called down about some business, he forgot what he had done by the time he came to the foot of the stairs, went out with the key in his pocket, and it was nearly dark before the two prisoners could be set at liberty.—Another time, in one of his absent fits, he mistook his friend's house, and went into another, the door of which happened to stand open, and no servant being in the way, he rambled all over the house, till coming into a middle room where was an old lady ill in bed of a quincy, he ambled over the night stool, threw a cloaths horse down, and might not have ended there, had not the affrighted patient made a noise at his intrusion, which brought up the servants, who, in finding doctor Harvest, in the room instead of the apothecary that was momently expected, quieted the old lady's fears, who by this was taken with such an immoderate fit of laughter at his confusion, that it broke the quincy in her throat, and she lived many years afterwards to thank doctor Harvest for his lucky mistake.

Having to preach before the clergy at a Visitation, he had provided himself with three sermons for the purpose, which he had in his pocket: some wags got possession of them, mixed the leaves, and sewed them all up as one.
The doctor began his sermon, and soon lost the thread of his discourse: he grew confused, but still persisted and went on, and actually preached out, first the clergy who had met on this occasion, next the churchwardens, and lastly the congregation; nor would he have ended had not the sexton and beadle admonished him that all the pews were empty, for they declared to his reverence, "they were all gone."

Mr. Harvest's forgetfulness continued with him through life, yet he was an amusing companion, and if we may judge of him from the sermons which he printed, he was no inelegant scholar, but in his person he was the most beastly sloven alive. He died at Ember Court, in August, 1789, aged 61.

Hung, for stealing a wife.—By a gentleman just from Ireland, we have been handed a Dublin paper of the 5th of April last, containing a long trial, and one that would be considered novel in this country:—It was for no less an offence than that of one man stealing another's daughter, and making her his wife. It appears, on the trial, that she was perfectly satisfied with her bargain, and would not appear as evidence against her husband, tho' notified by a "crown summons;" the prosecution was carried on by her father.— Great interest was manifested by the prisoner's attorney throughout the trial, but to no purpose; on Monday sentence of death was pronounced; and execution to take place on Saturday following. He was condemned under the "whiteboy act," for having fired a gun near the house, to alarm the family and favor his designs.
Marietta pilot.

SETTLEMENT OF BOSTON.

The last volume of the second series of the Collections of the Historical Society contains a deposition of four aged citizens of Boston, John Odlin, and others in the year 1764, relative to the early settlement of Boston.— These deponents being original settlers in the town, and from 63 to 78 years of age, testified to the following facts. That in the year 1684, the then inhabitants of Boston treated with Mr.
William Backstone for his lands laying on the peninsula, and for the purchase agreed that every householder should pay six shillings, some paying more and some less, and the said sum was delivered to Mr. Backstone in full satisfaction, for his whole right and interest in all the lands lying within the neck, he reserving to himself about 6 acres on the point called Backston's point, on part whereof his house stood.
After which purchase the town laid out a piece for a training field, which ever since and now is used for that purpose and for the feeding of cattle.
Gazette.

GRAND SPECTACLES.

The new brig which is now building in this town, by the order and under the direction of Capt. George Crowninshield, exceeds every thing of the kind we have ever seen. Her model, by Mr. R. Bocket, who, it is confessed, has given us the most faultless specimens of naval architecture, combining swiftness with burthen, is pronounced by competent judges to be his chief œuvre. The workmanship is in the best manner, and as no expense has been spared, it is probable she is the best built vessel in the country. The science and taste discovered in her rigging, is beyond any thing we had an idea of. As she has been built for a voyage of amusement and travels in the Mediterranean, her accommodations have been rendered the most convenient that can be placed on board a vessel. Her large dining room is in a style of richness and elegance never surpas-sed. She does great honor to the taste and skill of the mechanics and genius of the town, and we are happy to find that all the acquirements in naval architecture, from the practice of the best workmen for many years, have at length found an opportunity to produce so beautiful a specimen of art. She is completely rigged, and her sails bent as she now stands on the stocks; and must afford a grand spectacle at her launch, which we understand is to take place on Monday next.

STEAM BOATS.

We understand that an enterprising gentleman of this city proposes to organize a company with a capital of 125,000 dollars to build a steam boat, to run between New-Orleans and New York, with liberty to touch at the Ha-vanna; the subscription has commenced propitiously, a considerable part of the capital having been already engaged, and no doubt can be entertained that it will be filled immediately on the proposals being submitted to the public spirited citizens of New-York.

Direct Tax for 1816.

To all whom it may concern.

YOU are hereby notified that the Direct Tax of the United States for 1816, has become due and payable, and that attendance will be given to receive the same at the house of Hay Taliaferro, in the town of Winchester and county of Clarke, on the 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th and 16th days of November. At the house of John Rankins on the 20th—at the house of Joseph Thompson on the 22d—at the house of Edmund Ragland on the 28th—and in Estill at the November and December Courts.
A. D. RITCHIE,
Deputy Collector U. S. Revenue.

As a resolution of Congress requires that after the 20th of February next, all Taxes, Duties, &c. shall be paid in Specie, Treasury Notes, notes on the Bank of the United States, or notes of such banks as pay specie for their own notes, it is hoped that the good citizens of this district will avail themselves of the convenience of making payment before that day, and attending punctually to the above notice, where Kentucky notes will be received in payment of the direct tax.

I will attend at Capt. Banks', in Mountster-ling, on Monday the 6th, and at Col. Martin's, in Winchester, on Wednesday the 8th day of January next, for the purpose of doing business with Retailers, Distillers, &c. Carriage owners will attend those places and make entry and pay the duty on their carriages.
GEORGE W. BOTTS,
Collector for the First Collection District in the State of Kentucky.
Collector's Office, Nov. 1, 1816. 118-1f

To the Public.

WHEREAS I some time since gave Samuel Morton, of Clarke County, a certain power of attorney to recover a tract of Land in Boon county, state of Kentucky, entered in the name of Jacob Mishuss, and further to sell and convey any part of said land. This is to inform the public that I claim no land in said county under the entry of said Mishuss, and said Morton having acted illegally and otherwise improperly with respect to the power therein conveyed to him, and refuses to stop the proceedings in my request, I do hereby entirely revoke and set aside said power of attorney, and render it null and void to all intents and purposes; and further, the said Samuel Morton having obtained a bond from me for the conveyance of one half of my interest in the land entered in the name of said Mishuss, through misrepresentation, I forwarn all and every person from trading for or taking an assignment on said bond. As I am determined not to pay it unless compelled by law.

FULLING BUSINESS.

THE subscriber informs his friends and the public, that he intends carrying on the FULLING BUSINESS in Clarke county, Lower Howard's creek, at the mill formerly occupied by William Taylor, deceased. For the convenience of customers, he will attend on the first day of each Court at the following places, to wit: at Wm. Poston's store in Winchester—at Robt. Wood's, on the road from Winchester to Mountsterling—at Capt. Banks' in Mountsterling; and at Stone's store in Richmond. Cloth received one court day, will be returned the next. His Works being entirely new, he flatters himself that he will be enabled to do their work as good and as cheap as any other person. He will also be responsible for all cloth damaged in his care.

Fulling Business.

THE subscribers respectfully inform their friends and the public that they intend carrying on the Clothier's Business in all its various branches, on as good terms as can be afforded in this state. Their Fulling Mill is on Strode's Creek, about two miles below Hornback's mill, nine miles from Paris and nine from Winchester. For the convenience of customers they will attend at Mr. H. BERRY in Paris, on the first day of every Court, for the purpose of receiving and delivering Cloth likewise at Mr. JAMES ANDERSON'S, in Winchester, on the first day of every Court for the same purpose. Having a Fuller equal to any in the United States, they flatter themselves they shall give general satisfaction. Any colour will be made that is required.

Strayed or Stolen,

THE subscriber at Thomas Goff's in Clarke county, on the 1st instant, a SON REL HORSE, fourteen or fifteen hands high, three years old past, with a long bobbed tail, had a star in his forehead—his mane hangs on both sides of his neck, and a small lump on his back occasioned by the saddle. Any person finding said horse and confining him, giving information so that I get him, shall be generously rewarded.
WILLIAM DENNY.
